PROJECTS

03.2020 - 06.2020

Traxsit

My graduation project used VB.net, a system that new employees help to know the types and quantity of products that are in the companies they work in, and help to reduce the stress they live in at the beginning of their work. In addition, consumers help to know the location of products without research, which takes time for the product they are looking for. Therefore, the project provides help for new employees to provide them with information that helps them complete their daily work without any pressure, and also helps consumers find products easily without researching the place of purchase.

06.2017 - 07.2017

Crazy Food

Pioneering idea for a restaurant serving crazy food, using data mining to find out what the customer wants without asking him, with this project I gained the skill of how to be a pioneer and present different and creative ideas.
